

Little Theatre Members Enjoy Social Evening

The evening of Friday, February 17, at the Parish hall, proved interesting and entertaining to members of the Little Theatre and their friends. Two one-act plays were presented with the idea of bringing to light new talent.

The first presentation, "The Constant Lover," directed by Miss Dorothy Keenleyside, was played by Mr. Allin Jackson and Miss Mary Kerr. The former's views on "this thing called love" were very much enjoyed and Miss Kerr quite convinced the audience that love could be romantic even if one did have to "tell mother."

An eccentric doesn't know what to do with his money and finally, with the aid of a stage-struck nephew, leaves £50,000 to anyone foolish or greedy enough to exchange his own name for that of "Worzel Flummery." In the play of that name, two persons are faced with the proposition and because of human frailties, both accept.

Mr. Wm. Dusterhoeft, an elderly M.P., was the first to accept in spite of the arguments of a younger M.P. and suitor for his daughter's hand who later accepts the same offer himself, the character played by Mr. C. Carroll. Mrs. B. Cummings effectively played the part of the daughter who was very much intrigued with the name Flummery but was also determined that the money should remain in the family. Mrs. Dusterhoeft, her mother, wanted the money but was quite sure she could never get the name straight. Mr. Alec Howie took the part of the playwright nephew and was greatly surprised at the success of his scheme. Miss Rushforth directed the play.

Supper was served after the plays and an enjoyable evening was rounded out with bridge and dancing.

A series of such presentations have been planned in order to give experience to members who hitherto have had none.
